Verse 1

          G                  D          G
The show was over, it's all in the name
(G)                  D          G
It never was before, but this ain't the same
(G)                  D          G
So try to imagine a time and a place
          (G)                  Am D          G          Em | Am | D | G | Em | Am | D
where the enemy won and the he-ro was slain

Verse 2

          G                  D          G
And poetic justice burns in the minds
(G)                  D          G
of five dying soldiers on the front lines

with nobody singing in nobody's ears
(G)                                  Am D          G          Em | Am | D | G | Em | Am | D
and no one's disappointed when no-body hears

          G                  D          G
I know a lady, and promise her name
(G)                                  D          G
The price of her visit is suffering and pain

And we gladly waited and we gladly paid

We watched the sun rise, she never came

An electric current moves us around
(G)                                  D          G
We sank to our knees to worship the sound

but nobody told us that we'd rise again
